6th May 2020 - Week 7

Wishing all our mums a wonderful and happy Mother's Day. There's no doubt this year will feel different to any other. This year has been a challenge in so many ways to so many people. I pray that this year, it will be a time when you can reflect on the amazing person you are – the Masterpiece that God has made when He supervised your creation even from the time you were in your mother's womb. This reminds me that just as God was there when I was formed, he is still very much concerned and involved with my life. "In him I live and move and have my being." My whole life is completely reliant on Him. He has made me who I am, He knows how I think and how I function. This is how I can cast all my care on Him. This is how I can know that He will provide for me. This is how I can be joyful and be thankful. This season has taught me that I can trust in and depend upon my Creator with every area of my life. I can allow His word to continue renewing my mind as I submit my thoughts to its creative power. My emotions – I can cast all my care on Him and know that he will comfort me. I can trust him with my body. His will is for me is to be in health and to prosper as my soul prospers. I do not need to be afraid or anxious, because he cares for me.

Let me leave you Mothers with a few thoughts from Proverbs 31. Let these words affirm who you are, and how God see you. If you do not particularly feel any of these affirmations, I encourage you to receive them as prophetic word over your life today.

You are more precious than rubies.

God trusts you to enrich the lives of those in your family and those around you. ✦

You bring good and not harm to those around you

You are productive and creative

You are strong and brave and can take risks

You are not afraid of the future

You are spoken well of by those who know you

You have strength and dignity

You are wise, and give instruction with wisdom and kindness

You are not lazy

You are to be honoured by your husband and children (for those who do not have a husband, please know, we honour you, and Jesus loves and honours you).

You hold the Lord in Holy Awe and respect His words over your life.

May God bless you and keep you in His love and care.

Kindest regards,

Glenda
